Trinity Services' Concert Gala Event Gets Everyone in the Holiday Spirit!

On Friday, December 5, 2025, Trinity Services hosted their annual An Evening of Holiday Music Dinner and Concert Gala held at Butterfield Country Club in Oak Brook.

Attendees enjoyed cocktails and the beautiful sounds of harpist Lisa Bog-gess, followed by a delicious dinner and seasonal music performed by The Allegro!!! Ensemble of the Western Springs School of Talent Education.

Thane Dykstra, President and CEO of Trinity Services, welcomed everyone to the joyous event.

During the evening, people had the opportunity to purchase tickets for technology-related raffle prizes, and buy keys to try and open a treasure box containing a $500 Amazon gift card.

Following dinner, guests were entertained by extraordinary vocalists Diva Montell and George Holmes, who also led the audience in the singing of Christmas Carols.

"Everyone truly enjoyed themselves," said Sherry Ladislas, Trinity's Director of Development. "We are so grateful to our generous donors, sponsors, and advertisers who made this a great success!" (See page 4)

Dear Friends,

Congratulations! We made it through another Chicago winter! Hopefully, we can all look forward to a lovely spring!

First, I would like to thank all of our generous donors, supporters, and committee members for helping make the 2026 Concert Gala another big success. Everyone truly enjoyed the holiday entertainment, including festive harp music, the marvelous string ensemble from the Western Springs School of Talent Education, and especially our superb vocalists, Diva Montell and George Holmes. Well done!

Next, be sure to mark your calendars for all of the upcoming 2026 events, including the Tom O'Reilly Memorial Golf Classic at Ruffled Feathers Golf Club in Lemont on May 19, the popular Trinity Triumph 5K Walk and Run at the Village Commons in New Lenox on June 23, our Better Together Dinner Dance and Auction at DiNolfo's in Homer Glen on September 18, and An Evening of Holiday Music Dinner and Concert Gala on December 4.

In this issue, our Someone You Should Know (see page 6) is Sarah Wroblewski, one of our dedicated Qualified Intellectual Disabilities Professional (QIDP) supervisors. Please take a moment to read all about Sarah and the excellent work she is doing at Trinity Services.

As I have mentioned before, the Trinity Foundation has established Endowment 75, a special nonprofit endowment fund specifically created to provide long-term financial stability for Trinity Services and the people we serve.

To learn more about Endowment 75, contact Sherry Ladislus, Director of Development, at sladislus@trinityservices.org, or call her at (815) 717-3750. Sherry will be happy to assist you.

Finally, we are saddened to announce the recent passing of long-time Trinity Services' board member Barb Hall. I served on the Board with Barb since she first became a member in 1990. Barb's daughter, Amy, who came to the Trinity School when she was only four years old, is still flourishing at Trinity.

Thank you again for all you do to support Trinity Services. And remember, spring is just around the corner!

Sincerely,

Raymond D. McShane,
Chairperson of the Board

Barbara Jean Hall, Long-Time Board Member, Devoted Decades to Supporting Trinity Services

Barbara Jean Hall, age 92, of Manhattan, Illinois, passed away peacefully on Friday, November 21, 2025.

Born on March 24, 1933, in Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Henry and Ruth (Plummer), Barb grew up with a strong sense of family, compassion, and responsibility—qualities that guided her throughout her long and generous life.

As a young woman, Barb moved to Joliet, Illinois, to be close to her sister and her family. She and her husband, Dick, later built a home in Manhattan, Illinois, in the Ranch Oaks subdivision, where they raised three children and created a warm, welcoming household filled with love, humor, and the steady presence of a devoted mother.

Barb's life was profoundly shaped by her daughter Amy, who was diagnosed with developmental and intellectual disabilities. At the age of four, Amy was enrolled in the Trinity School, beginning a life-long connection between the Hall family and Trinity Services. After completing her education in the public school system through high school, Amy returned to Trinity as an adult and continues to live in one of its homes. Barb's advocacy for Amy—and for all individuals with disabilities—became one of her life's defining missions.

Her dedication extended far beyond her own family. Barb served on the Board of Directors of Trinity Services for more than thirty years, offering leadership, insight, and unwavering support.

Art Dykstra, former President and CEO of Trinity Services, worked closely with Barb during her decades of service and spoke warmly of her contributions. "Barb was a very dedicated person to Trinity Services," Dykstra said. "She was the first parent to publicly say, 'I trust Trinity Services to care for my child.'"

Dykstra also reflected on the qualities that made Barb such an exceptional board member and advocate. "Barb had many qualities that I valued," he said. "If we needed help doing something, she was always there to lend a hand. She also brought a lot of organizational strategic thinking to the board of directors. I certainly valued Barb as a parent of one of the people we served, who was always willing to speak with other parents about placing their children at Trinity."

Barb was deeply civic minded, and her commitment to community service was evident throughout her life. She was a charter member of the Manhattan Women's Club, and an active participant in the Trinity Friends and Family parent group. She worked at the Trinity daycare, where her warmth and patience touched many young families, and she helped organize Trinity Services' annual garage sale, an event that brought people together while supporting important programs.

Barb lived a full and vibrant life beyond her civic work. She enjoyed traveling, and she cultivated a wide circle of friends, nieces, and nephews who were an integral part of her world. She loved animals, and found joy and peace in tending to her gardens.

Thane Dykstra, President and CEO of Trinity Services, remembered a warm-hearted and generous person. "Barb always had a twinkle in her eye, and you instantly realized that she was a person of incredible joy and gratitude," said Dykstra. "She was always focused on helping others, and she maintained the highest expectations regarding Trinity's services and support. As a board member, Barb was loved and respected by her colleagues. Her passion and infectious positive outlook are missed more than I can convey."

Barb's legacy lives on in the community she strengthened, the organizations she championed, and the countless lives touched by her compassion, advocacy, and generosity. She will be deeply missed.

Someone You Should Know

Sarah Wroblewski, QIDP Supervisor

"I want to grow as a leader."
-- Sarah Wroblewski, QIDP Supervisor

Born in Joliet, Illinois, Sarah Wroblewski grew up in the small town of Elwood, just south of the city, and attended Joliet Central High School, where she excelled at softball and volleyball. A middle child, Sarah has two brothers. Her younger brother, Adam, has cerebral palsy. Supporting her brother, as well as having the opportunity to work with students with disabilities at her high school, provided a catalyst for Sarah to pursue a career in special education.

"During my junior and senior years at Joliet Central, I participated in the peer trainer program, an adaptive PE class supporting students with disabilities," explained Wroblewski, who eventually won the Peer Trainer of the Year award. Sarah was also involved with the Miracle League, a local organization that provides an opportunity for children and young adults with disabilities to play Miracle League baseball.

"It was a great experience for my brother, Adam," said Wroblewski. "I also had the opportunity to meet other young adults with disabilities."

Following her high school graduation, Sarah enrolled at Lewis University with a major in Special Education. Then she discovered social work, a profession in which trained professionals are devoted to helping vulnerable people and communities work through challenges they face in everyday life. Inspired, Sarah decided to change her major.

In 2022, Sarah received her Bachelor's degree in Social Work. During that time, she fulfilled her undergraduate internship requirements working at the Oak Psychosocial Rehabilitation Program (PSR), a division of Trinity Services. "It was my first time working with older adults with disabilities," said Wroblewski. "I really loved it."

The following year, Sarah received her Master's degree in Social Work, also from Lewis University, and became a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. Two months later, Sarah joined Trinity Services as a Qualified Intellectual Disabilities Professional (QIDP) Coordinator with Network 3, reporting to Jen Hodges, one of Trinity's residential directors. The QIDP role involves mentoring team members to help coordinate services and support, and assess progress towards personal goals and outcomes.

Sarah's leadership skills were immediately evident. "Sarah is very passionate, and people are drawn to her," explained Hodges. "She's a very hard worker, leads by example, and is very genuine, which is why people love working with her."

Over the past two years, Hodges has made it a point to challenge Wroblewski to do more, and to take on a leadership role. "Sarah is a great role model, which helps to make her a natural leader," said Hodges. "She spends a great deal of time doing things with people supported, which has made her a stronger QIDP."

Today, Sarah is a QIDP Supervisor, overseeing other QIDPs and case managers, ensuring quality care, compliance, and program effectiveness for the people with disabilities and mental health concerns supported by Trinity Services.

Wroblewski loves working at Trinity and enjoys the challenge of taking on more responsibilities. "I want to be a person who is approachable and is willing to listen to others," said Wroblewski. "My position at Trinity offers me the opportunity to grow as a leader, while doing something I truly love."

Thane Dykstra, President and CEO of Trinity Services, is impressed with the impact that Sarah has already made in a short period of time.

"Sarah is an amazing colleague who has made a difference in the lives of people with disabilities even before starting her professional career," said Dykstra. "It is obvious that Sarah's work is mission-based and truly emanates from her heart. Besides what has been highlighted about Sarah previously, I have also been tremendously impressed with the effort Sarah has made to celebrate the achievements of people supported within her network."

In her free time, Sarah enjoys hanging out with family and friends, playing video games, shopping, and rooting for Chicago sports teams and Indiana football.

Helping People Flourish!

Trinity's mission is to provide the highest quality, person-directed services and support to people with disabilities and mental health concerns so that they may flourish and live full and abundant lives.

Jonathan

Jonathan, a person with developmental disabilities, lives in a Trinity residential home with remote supports that help him navigate daily routines. Over the past two years, Johnathan has built a life filled with structure, support, and a growing sense of independence.

In 2025, Johnathan began attending small group discussions at Studio 22, a community day service program operated by Trinity. Small groups, rooted in the principles of positive psychology, are designed for people to share their experiences, learn coping skills, and build confidence. At first, Johnathan sat quietly, listening more than speaking. But as the weeks passed, he found himself sharing stories, offering encouragement to others, and asking thoughtful questions.

"I like small groups," said

Johnathan with a smile. "I get to talk about myself and meet other people."

This year, Johnathan stepped into a new role as a small group co-facilitator. Johnathan now helps guide conversations, supports others when they struggle to express themselves, and helps bring a calm, steady presence to the group.

"Being a co-facilitator is great," said Johnathan. "I love it!"

This year, Johnathan received his CPR certification card. Johnathan was already very knowledgeable because he took CPR training in high school. In January, Johnathan signed up for a course, took the test, and earned his certificate.

Janine

Janine, who has cerebral palsy, came to Trinity Services in May 2003. She works part-time for the Employee Services department at the administration building in New Lenox, where she is valued for her input into the hiring process and the energy she brings to her job.

Janine enjoys talking with the people who interview for positions at Trinity. "I'm happy to have this job," said Janine with a smile. "I am very grateful for this opportunity."

Amy Schmucker, Director of Employee Services, says Janine's role is pivotal.

"Janine greets every applicant and visitor, interviews candidates for residential roles, and presents during our weekly onboarding sessions," explains Schmucker. "Her positivity, quick wit, and natural charisma are contagious, and she instantly puts people at ease."

Importantly, Janine gives applicants and newly hired employees firsthand experience of what it's truly like to work alongside and support someone with a disability.

"Because of Janine, people don't just hear about our mission, they feel it the moment they walk through the door," said Schmucker. "She is very dedicated and serious about her work."

Janine is also a big Chicago sports fan, who follows the Bears, Bulls, and Cubs.

"I love to watch sports," explained Janine. "It gives me something to look forward to every year."

Janine is ready to follow the Chicago Cubs this summer and cheer on the Chicago Bears and Bulls next fall. "We've got a lot to be excited about! I can't wait!"
